WELCOME NEW MEMBERS!

February’s Meeting: Native Orchids of New England On Sunday FEBRUARY 21 (PLEASE NOTE CHANGE OF DATE) CAIOS welcomes back our friend from the New Hampshire Orchid Society, Jean Stefanik. Jean will be presenting a program on native orchids—what’s out there, where they are, what’s being done to preserve and propagate these species that are native to New England. Don’t miss this! Also coming soon you will find information on Native Orchids on our website.

Last Month’s Meeting: We held CAIOS workshops where members learned safe methods to transport their orchids; grooming your orchids and the fine art of displaying orchids. All very useful information for shows and the grooming and display information is helpful any time.

Upcoming Meeting: March – Presentation by Joanna Eckstrom April – Presentation by Margarite Webb

Bus Trip: The Connecticut Orchid Society is planning a bus trip to SEPOS (South East Pennsylvania Orchid Society) show April 1-3, 2016 at the greater Philadelphia Expo Center. This will also include a private behind the scenes tour of Longwood Gardens on Sunday. They have extended the invitation to CAIOS members who may be interested. Show News: Winter Wonderland of Orchids- Mother Nature’s appearance for our show weekend created a nice ambiance of a “winter wonderland”, while also creating last minute difficulties. A special “Thank you” to all of the members who came out to assist with the show, especially under the snowy weather conditions, your assistance was greatly appreciated.

Did you attend the show and take pictures? Due to this year’s weather conditions I have very few pictures, and all are from set-up. (especially our CAIOS display) If you have any to share I would appreciate it if you would forward to either OakH35@yahoo.com or webmaster@caios.org. Thank you.

Congratulation to all of the CAIOS show winners! A list of all the winners can be found on our website www.caios.org

Orchids Questions – Answers – Helpful Hints

Aerides lawrenceae: There was a request for growing information for Aerides lawrenceae this month which required me to reach out to other sources for the information. I want to thank Monty Sabolcik for responding and providing insight into his growing experience. His Aerides lawrenceae received an AM award.

“I grow mine in a large basket, under the overhang of my east facing garage, in full sun until 11 a.m. all summer, once the temperatures are above 55 degrees at night, with no media except for a little bit of coco fiber around the roots to help maintain some moisture. I have found that it flowers better when given really bright light, almost full sun. In September, I moved the plant closer to the house and the air movement wasn't enough to cool down the foliage during some 80 degree days in fall causing the foliage to burn. If pushing the plant to the limits of what it can take for light, err on the side of caution to avoid seriously burning the foliage.”

“The roots will adhere to the basket quickly if culture is right. They like to stay warm all year round, (between 60 and 85 or 90 at the high end.” They prefer 60% humidity.

“I fertilize mine regularly, 2-4 times a month- vandae really like fertilizer, but water it constantly. I do stress the importance of watering, especially if there is no media in the basket or pot. I find all my aerides and vandae like if I water them well once, then hit the vandae again to make sure that those roots have turned totally green. I only fertilize after giving an initial watering to make sure the roots are ready to absorb the fertilizer. During the winter and fall they are in a warm greenhouse, enabling me to really soak the plant at least once a day. In the late spring and summer I will water twice a day.” It is very important you keep water out of the growing crown where new leaves emerge from.

“If someone is trying to grow this plant in the house, I would suggest a basket or pot with wide openings to allow air to penetrate to the roots with Coco fiber, or a thin layer of sphagnum. Window screening (like for your sliding door) is good to retain media in either an open slatted basket or a plastic type basket. (I also like those black plastic "ultimate orchid baskets") If using bark, use large chunks to accentuate the air to the roots. I like to use coco fiber, as I have a super heavy hand with the watering, and so guard against drowning the roots. It really depends on the individual and what conditions they are growing under.”

Do you have a hint or experience you would like to share with the members? Have you acquired a new plant and you need some advice? Please continue to contact me via e-mail (OakH35@yahoo.com) (or see me at one of the monthly meetings) with your questions, hints or something you would like to share with the members. All of your questions answered in upcoming newsletters.

I now appeal to the entire membership---if there is a topic you would like to see presented at a meeting, if you have experienced a presenter we have not seen and think they would good for us, OR if you have a topic YOU would be willing to present to the group (There are a lot of expert growers in this society---don't be shy) please contact me at busywomanc@comcast.net or call my home phone 508-694-6279.
